Management Discussion of Fund Performance

Investment Objective and Strategies

This Fund follows a sustainable thematic approach and invests in common shares of small, medium and large-cap global companies. The Fund integrates broad Environmental, Social and Governance (ESG) criteria, and excludes all issuers directly involved in the extraction, processing and transportation of fossil fuels. This Fund is unique in that it aims to support both financial and sustainable returns. With respect to financial results, it strives to outperform global stock markets. The pooled fund also seeks to help improve the world by investing in companies offering leading environmental and social solutions.

Genus Capital Management Inc. (the Fund's Manager) begins by identifying the world's 150 most sustainable companies based on products, services and programs that support the following themes: renewable energy, energy efficiency, water and waste management, access to education, health care, financial services and technology and sustainable agriculture. Next, the manager selects a portfolio of the top 20 to 40 companies through a quantitative multi-style discipline that evaluates opportunities based on value, growth, expectation, momentum, quality and sustainability.

Risk

There were no significant changes to the investment objective and strategies that affected the Fund's overall level of risk during the reporting period and the risks of investing in the Fund and the suitability of the Fund for investors remain as discussed in the Simplified Prospectus.

Results of Operations

The Fund's net asset value increased to $25.0 million as at June 30, 2019 from $22.1 million as at December 31, 2018.

For the first half of 2019, the Fund's Series O units gained 9.3%, versus the 12.3% benchmark. The Fund's return is after the deduction of fees and expenses.

With equity markets pricing in central bank rate cuts for the end of the year, global stock markets extended their gains after a brief pullback in May. Central banks across the globe followed the lead of the US Federal Reserve (Fed) over the quarter, taking a dovish tone. One indication of this weakening is the Purchasing Managers Index (PMI). The index illustrates the strength of the manufacturing sector, and it fell below 50 for several countries; readings below 50 are viewed as evidence of slowing economic growth. The absence of inflation is leading investors to expect a soft landing for the economy and a central bank policy reversal.

The US has been busy on the trade front as negotiators kept up the pressure on trading partners. Talks with China began to break down early in the second quarter when Chinese officials pulled parts of the agreement, claiming that major policy and regulation overhauls were needed. The US retaliated with threats of tariffs on remaining Chinese exports. Despite the lack of meaningful progress, both leaders should be motivated to reach an agreement as they face pressures from domestic and global economic slowdowns.

For the Genus Fossil Free High Impact Equity fund, overweight IT sector contributed positively as the sector stays robust within a slowing global economy powered by automation and hardware/software consolidation. On the other hand, stock selection in the Communication Services and Consumer Discretionary sector underperformed. For stock selection, the best performing stocks in the fund were Arista Networks Inc (IT) and ServiceNow Inc. (IT). The worst performing stocks were Citrix (IT) and Unicharm. (Consumer Staples).

Recent Developments

Considering the uncertainty surrounding US and China trade negotiations, and the potential for further deterioration in global economic leading indicators, we hold a more balanced view between equities and fixed income, and continue to favor the safe haven commodity. From a country bets perspective, we still favour the US because of a change in tax policy implemented in early 2018 and the possibility US will lower interest rate to maintain growth in the absence of inflation. We are not overly optimistic about markets represented by the Europe, Australasia and the Far East (EAFE) Index thanks to a range of market-specific factors including trade tensions, no progress in Brexit negotiations, and the absence of monetary policy, with multiple euro zone countries at zero or sub-zero interest rates, to weather an economic recession.

In terms of sector exposures, we remain overweight in defensive sectors, including Utilities and Telecom. Among cyclical sectors, we believe IT sector will remain strong, and Material sector might regain some losses based on a broader shift to owning gold as fear of another downturn lurks around the market. Within the Financials sector, we tilted industry exposure away from US banks believing that there is a higher probability interest rate will fall. Finally, we remain underweight in Industrials and Health Care mainly to mitigate geopolitical risks.

Related Party Transactions

1 This information is provided as at June 30 and December 31 of the year shown; unless noted otherwise.

2 Management expense ratio is based on total expenses (excluding commissions and other portfolio transaction costs) for the stated period and is expressed as an annualized percentage of the daily average net asset value during the period.

3 The trading expense ratio represents total commissions and other portfolio transaction costs expressed as an annualized percentage of daily average net asset value during the period.

4 The Fund's portfolio turnover rate indicates how actively the Fund's portfolio adviser manages its portfolio investments. A portfolio turnover rate of 100% is equivalent to the Fund buying and selling all of the securities in its portfolio once in the course of the year. The higher a fund's portfolio turnover rate in a year, the greater the trading costs payable by the fund in the year, and the greater the chance of an investor receiving taxable capital gains in the year. There is not necessarily a relationship between a high turnover rate and the performance of a fund.

PAST PERFORMANCE

The following charts show how the Fund has performed in the past, and can help you understand the risks of investing in the Fund. These returns include the reinvestment of all distributions and would be lower if an investor did not reinvest distributions. They do not include deduction of sales, switch, redemption, or other optional charges (which dealers may charge) or income taxes payable, and these returns would be lower if they did. The Fund's past performance does not necessarily indicate how it will perform in the future.

Year-by-Year Returns

The bar chart shows, in percentage terms, how much an investment made on the first day of each financial year would have grown or decreased by the end of the financial year or interim period. The following bar chart shows the Fund's return of Series O units only. Investment performance in respect of Series F units is not available because no units of this series of the Fund have been sold since inception.
